

Morning Presentation: Ice cream & Personalities

F.3B Ivan Lam

F.3B Anna Tsui

A: Good morning, everyone. We are from 3B. I am Anna.

I: I am Ivan.

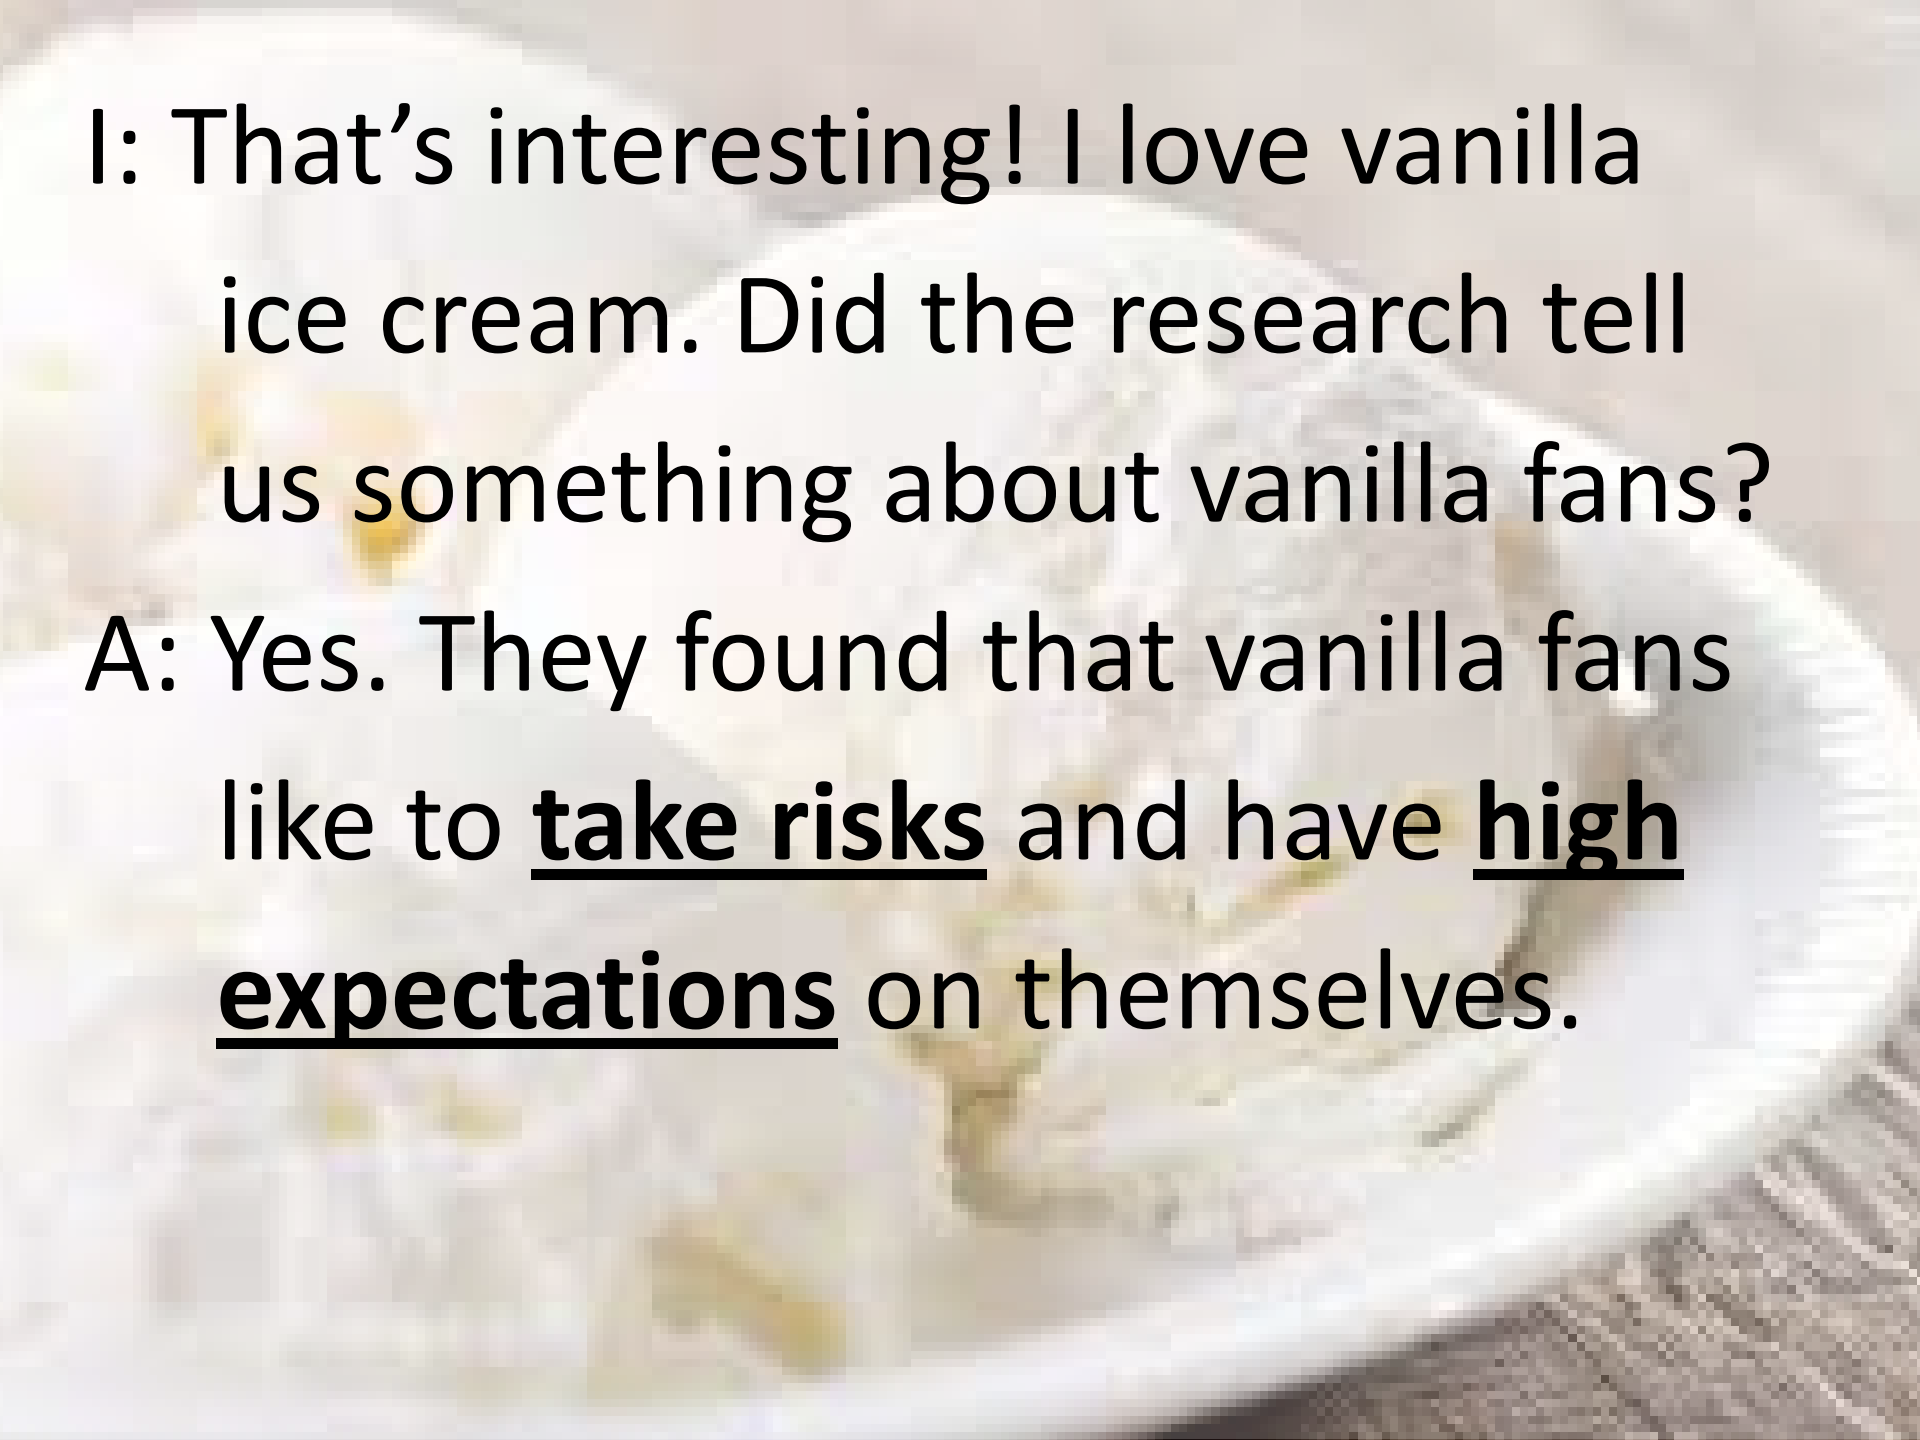

A: Anna, do you like eating ice cream?

I: Sure. Ice cream tastes really good.

Why are you asking me about ice cream? Do you have some for me?

A: Not really... Recently, I have found a research showing that your taste in ice cream reveals a lot about your personality.

The Smell and Taste Treatment and Research Foundation in the U.S.A. have done a research for an ice cream company to find out what people's choice of ice cream tells you about their personality.

I: That's interesting! I love vanilla ice cream. Did the research tell us something about vanilla fans?

A: Yes. They found that vanilla fans like to take risks and have high expectations on themselves.

I: It's amazing! That actually sounds like me. I love setting high goals. I would like to take challenges. Also, I think I am kind of impulsive as I do things without thinking carefully.

A: Wow! That really matches with the result from the research.
Actually, I love chocolate ice cream a lot.

I: Let me take a look of the research!
They found that chocolate lovers are outgoing and love to be the centre of attention.

They like changes and excitements, and become bored with the usual routine.

What kind of chocolate ice cream you choose can mean different things. Those who prefer Double Chocolate Chunk, for example, tend to be lively, creative and charming.

A: That's right. They may be good at music or art, are fun to talk to and are at the centre of any social events. However, I prefer Chocolate Chip instead.

According to the study, Chocolate Chip lovers tend to be generous and knowledgeable. They do things pretty well.

I: I know why it's your favourite flavour now. Hey, I've got a question. How to analyse the character of people who change flavours every week?

You know, my friend liked Mint Chocolate last month, but her favourite is Strawberry and Cream flavour now.

A: That's a good one. The researchers provided no information about it. Further research is needed. I hope you guys enjoy our presentation. Thank you for your time!
